"World renowned Celian Yo-yo Ma is defined to hold in a floating stage on the Vltava river of Prague in September as part of the first edition of the Sound Festival of Prague.Ã¢ € œ "We are naturally happy to have Yo-yo come to the festivalÃ¢ € œ The Programmer Borg guy told Radio Prague in interview. I don't know the story with him, because he introduced himself in a raised angry gala for the ropes of the autumn festival in 2014.Ã¢ € œ He, so that he Go back here this year, especially with your Bach project in which he will be playing the complete cellular suites by Bach is something very special, "he added. "We feel that our floating concert phase on the Vltava River in the center of Prague is a suitable place for such a project. First created last year to circumvent Covid-19 restrictions at internal events, the phase floating will be installed in the vltava for a week in the next month as part of the next festival of Prague sounds. Working from September 2 to 8, the Prague sounds originated from an unique outdoor concert organized last year by ropes Autumn at the peak of coronavirus pandemic. Due to the overwhelmingly positive response of the public, the organizers decided to turn it into a festival of a full-fledged week this year. Although most of the program occurs outdoors, A concert also planned in the Rudolfinum concert hall, according to the festival site. The attractive formation of this first edition also includes the American pianist of Jazz Brad Mehldau, which Present with Tenor Ian Bostridge, singer Lizz Wright and artist Czech Jiri. Celist born of Paris of international acclamation Ma, whose career and rise to fame is closely linked to the music of the Bach. German composer, will carry out the cello of Bach Bach In September 4. Cellisto Yo-Yo Ma puts an improvised concert in a waiting room after he received his second dose of a vaccine Covid-19. He played Hail Mary in the Berkshire Community collection in Massachusetts, where the receivers of vaccines wait and are monitored after getting the JAB. November 15, 2016, 17:06 | Updated: October 24, 2019, 11:55 of legends like Rostropovich for contemporary masters like Yo-Yo Ma and Weilerstein, we gathered a list of the best cell phones of all time. Luigi Boccherini, you know the best of your harp string quintet in and, but Boccherini was actually one of the main influences in the modern repertoire of the guitars to his era, a very rewarding concert. Still held constantly today and seen by cellars as something of a clip, the shadow of Boccherini approaches more than even he had predicted. Adrien-France Servieutes This large Belgian Muso lived from 1807 to 1866) and was one of the most influential cell phones of the XIX. He is one of the founders of the modern Celistic Schools of Paris and Madrid, and also was a highly considered composer. Top mustache too. Pablo Casas The Spanish cellist was responsible for some of Bach's most sparkling recordings left, and it was a genuine connection between the modern age and the true history of the instrument. Having played with the likes of Fritz Kreisler and held in front of Theodore Roosevelt, you could say that he was very well respected. Pierre Fournierfournier was known in music circles as "the aristocrat of the celenses," thanks to his refined presence of sound and stage. But that did not mean he was somehow educated or conservative: in fact, his apparent facility only makes his musicalism even more impressive. In the last years, he also taught Julian Lloyd Webber. Natalia Gutmanshe, in no way, the most famous name on our list, but his pure verve and electricity as an artist guarantee her place. A student of Rostropovich, she shares with him that certain indefinite balance that leaves the Russian school of Cell playing. Steven Isserlis is a professor that a good hair lead can support you in good place for a lifetime playing the cello, Steven Isserlis is fast to become a national treasure, thanks not just for your incendiário, but also for just being an adorable, adorable. He wrote the books of the children about the music, he debuts modern works and continues to electrify the concert stages around the world. How to force good. Julian Lloyd WebbananTout Fine Ambassador to the instrument, and one for a long time for this. JLW announced his cello retirement in 2015 due to the shoulder fatigue, but fortunately, since he was able to keep a modest calendar that reminds us only what an extraordinary and wireless talent he still ©. Yo-Yo Ma Anyon who the most famous cellist in the world is, and chances are that they will say Yo-Yo Ma. If he is being discovered by Leonard Bernstein, playing Bluegrass or lying on the ground with a wombat, he is an ambassador for the instrument - loved and respected in equal measure. Mischa Maisky Maisky has one of the most essential ingredients for any CÁ © Lula - icon in hair. But, in addition, he was a student of the great Mstislav Rostropovich and since then he enjoyed an international career for the intensity of his game. His vibrato is full of blood and warm, his power in the fort is almost unintentionable. David Popper not content with being one of the greatest cellos of his generation, David Popper also computes some truly diabolic works for the instrument. He also went out with people like Liszt and Hans von Bülow, so that practically makes it musical royalties only by association. Jacqueline du Pravé stories are as romantic, tract and human as Jacqueline du Pravé. Of course, our tendency to romanticize Play on how we see it today, but that should not get the amazing power of her. Mstislav Rostropovich this list. List. It does not have Rostropovich on it. A Russian master, inextricably envied with the most influential composers of his time, and one of the first real stars of the recorded classical music. Simply, without Rostropovich, the cello would not have been the instrument today. Heinrich Schiff inspired a generation of large new cell phones, teaching the tastes of Natalie Clein and Gautier Capucon in his early careers. But by his right place, the late cellist was a bold and held pro - just heard his super-quick commission of Bach's cello sets: Starkstarkar Janes was a virtuous in his youth that, unbelievably, he was giving less students with only 8. Predictably, things increased from there and, in addition to a long and decorated teaching career, he made some of the best cellular recordings available. Most notably approaching Kodaly solo sonatas. Paul Tortelier after an impeccable innence in his career performing under the battles of Bruno Walter and Arturo Toscanini, in addition to the rowing the cello solo in Richard Strauss "Don Quixote, under the first composer, Tortelier then cimised Cello History, Teaching Jacqueline du Prá ©. Alisa Weilersteinif You're worried about who will take the torch to the inventive credits in the next years, do not worry anymore: a concessile recipient of MacArthur's genius and the LEONARD BERNSTEIN, the American Cane Alisa Weilerstein will be ventured through the world of the new contemporary music for the predictable future. Future.
