[3] is used to develop applications for Android, [4] Android TV, [5] iOS, MacOS, [6] TVOS, [7] Web, [8] Windows [6] and UWP [9] allowing developers to use the REACT framework together with the native platform functionality [10]. It is also used to develop virtual reality applications at OCULUS [11]. In 2012 Mark Zuckerberg commented: "The biggest mistake we did as a company was betting too much on HTML rather than native". [12] [13] The use of HTML5 for the mobile version of Facebook has led to an unstable application that retrieved data slowly. [14] He promised that would soon provide a better mobile experience. Runs in a background process (which interprets developer-written JavaScript) directly on the final device and communicates with native native platform via serialized data over an asynchronous and batched bridge.[18][19] React components wrap existing native code and interact with native APIs via React¢ÃÂÂs declarative UI paradigm and JavaScript. React Native also allows developers to write native code in languages such as Java or Kotlin for Android, Objective-C or Swift for iOS, and C++/WinRT or C# for Windows 10, which makes it even more flexible.
