CHAPTER 2

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW

ANSWERS TO LEARNING OBJECTIVES/
LEARNING OBJECTIVES CHECK QUESTIONS
AT THE BEGINNING AND THE END OF THE CHAPTER

Note that your students can find the answers to the even-numbered Learning Objectives Check questions in Appendix E at the end of the text. We repeat these answers here as a convenience to you.

1A. What is the basic structure of the U.S. government? The Constitution divides the national government's powers among three branches. The legislative branch makes the laws, the executive branch enforces the laws, and the judicial branch interprets the laws. Each branch performs a separate function, and no branch may exercise the authority of another branch. A system of checks and balances allows each branch to limit the actions of the other two branches, thus preventing any one branch from exercising too much power.

2A. What constitutional clause gives the federal government the power to regulate commercial activities among the various states? To prevent states from establishing laws and regulations that would interfere with trade and commerce among the states, the Constitution expressly delegated to the national government the power to regulate interstate commerce. The commerce clause—Article I, Section 8, of the U.S. Constitution—expressly permits Congress “[t]o regulate Commerce with foreign Nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian Tribes.”

TABLE 2.1: CONSTITUTIONAL PRINCIPLES

Constitutional Principle	Description	Relevant Provision in the Constitution's Text	Relevant Provision in the Constitution's Text
Federalism	Constitution has only the authority that the people have given to it; government must stay this limit	Article I, Section 1, Clause 1: No bill of attainder or ex post facto laws shall be passed	In the opening sentences of Article I, the voters elected the members of Congress, and then elected their representatives
Republicanism	A type of government in which each citizen in the political population and is protected by their elected delegates	Article II	The President elected a representative government instead of a democracy because it is necessary to have a strong central government to run the country
Checks and Balances	Three branches of government (the legislative, executive, and judicial branches) each have powers that the other branches cannot exercise	Article I, Section 1, Clause 1: The President is elected by the people, the President and other representatives	The checks and balances served as a safeguard to check each branch and prevent any one branch from becoming too powerful
Federalism	Constitution divides power between the national and state governments	Article I, Section 1	The President must follow the rules that they set in dividing the powers between the government and the states
Supremacy Clause	There are three branches of government (the legislative, executive, and judicial branches)	Article I, Section 1	In order to put the separation of powers into effect, they followed a system of checks and balances that would allow the government to stay within its limits
